-Spectator Notes-

Doris Brand of Carmel is back from a three week trip Northward. Northward, for Doris, means Alaska. She was in business there, and goes back often to see old friends.

The decor of the Village Shoe Tree's new shop was handled largely by Lorene (Mrs. Jimmy) Rowe, and has received lots of favorable comment. The room is French provincial..very pretty, with yellow figured paper, sea green carpeting, and an abundance of charm.

La Playa's pool opened this past week...and is already much in use. Memberships will be extended to a limited number of La Playa's neighbors...and to guests of the hotel.

You can believe this or not. But we hear that a strange accident befell Steve Crouch. Seems that he and his wife, Cookie, came home after a busy evening arranging the Bach Festival reception at the Carmel Art Association gallery. Steve was upset. 'Food,' he said. Indigestion caused him to walk in his sleep -- right out of a second floor window. He lit, of all places, in a garbage can. Badly shaken, but not seriously injured, he had to bang loudly on the door to rouse Cookie to come down and let him back in.

Some time ago we passed on to Spectator readers the fascinating story of our correspondence with Rod Ingall of Tauranga, New Zealand. Rod, a fellow newspaperman, is trying to increase his dollars. (Aren't we all?) The thing is that in pound sterling countries it's even harder than most places. Rod offered for sale wooden souvenir rulers, containing samples of native woods, for $1. We sent for a few, and they have now arrived. We are pleased to offer a glowing Consumer Report. The rulers are handsome, and we've sworn off the plastic variety forever. The little booklet which accompanies them tells all about the exotic (Pukatea, Rewarewa, Kaikawaka, etc.) woods that are in the ruler, gives a pronunciation guide, and describes how the woods look on the root. Once again, we refer interested parties to the classified section.

DECISION ON LA PLAYA BAR MAY COME NEXT WEEK

A decision by the state Board of Equalization on the application of the La Playa Hotel for a liquor license may come next week. Ivores R. Dains, referee at the hearing yesterday, said that the board might hear the case at its meeting next Thursday.

Arguments at the hearing centered around the fact that La Playa is an island of business property surrounded by a residential area. The board will have to decide whether or not this is a valid basis for rejecting the application.

City Attorney Thomas K. Perry brought out the background of the present zoning ordinance and showed that the hotel is surrounded by residences. H.M. Gleason, speaking in behalf of property owners in the area who signed a petition against the proposed cocktail lounge, said that such a bar would not be in keeping with the residential neighborhood, It was brought out that some property owners fear a drop in the value of their property.

Attorney Gordon Campbell, representing Ashton H. Stanley, manager of the hotel, argued that the sale of alcoholic beverages is permitted in C-1 zones under the city ordinance. Therefore, there is no valid ground to opposing a bar in a hotel which is on a business-zoned property.

MONEY AVAILABLE TO COMPLETE WOODS SCHOOL

With an excess of $42,301 on hand at the end of its current fiscal year and an additional allowance of $35,000 for building in the 1952-53 school budget, the Carmel school board can, if it chooses, complete construction of Woods School during the coming school year. Thomas Elston, Jr., architect, has estimated that the cost of completing Woods would be roughly $70,000. The happy state of school finances was made public at the Wednesday night meeting of the Carmel Board of School Trustees.

The news came on the heels of last week's meeting between the Board of Directors of the Parent Teachers' Association and the school board; at which members of both discussed crowded conditions in Carmel schools and the possible necessity of a bond issue for needed construction.

INSTALLED IN HIS THIRD TERM as commander of American Legion Carmel Post 512, James Marvin Kelsey (right), Village police officer, receives a gavel and congratulations from Commander William W. Dodd of the organization's District 28, embracing Monterey Bay area counties. Kelsey and other new post officers were formally inducted to their positions at a Monday night ceremony in Legion Hall by a 40 et 8 Society team. -- Arthur McEwen photo.

The disposal of the $77,301 was not definitely decided on Wednesday, but will be based on a survey of enrollment needs to be made this fall. The money could either be speng ey could either be spent entirely in constructing Woods.. or a part, or all, devoted to construction of 5 rooms of the proposed River School. In discussing the two alternatives, Stuart Mitchell, superintendent of schools, pointed out that money used at Woods would yield greater classroom space, since preparation of the ground there has already been made. He also pointed out that the beginning of the River School would add to other financial burdens, such as increased expense for another principal, utilities installation a nd the erection of a fence.

The money available for building comes from three sources. $13,975 is cash on hand, left over from this year's operating expenses. $28,326 comes from an increase in the assesed value of the Carmel school district during the past year. (A recent evaluation increased the assesed value by an additional $2,210,000.) The third source is an allowance of approximately $35,000 for building already included in the 1952-53 school budget.

The board also re-elected J.O. Handley its president and Mrs. Dorothy von Meier, clerk. It is Handley's second year as president and 5th year as a member of the board.

ELECTION ON GARBAGE DISTRICT BOND ISSUE

Directors of the Monterey Peninsula Garbage and Refuse Disposal District voted this week to place on the November ballot a bond issue of $150,000 for the purchase of a disposal site. One of five possible sites must be chosen by that time and designated on the ballot.

No tax levy will be asked this year but, should the ten-year bond issue pass, a levy of approximately three cents would be required the first year to cover interest and principle payments.

The Monterey Peninsula Realty Board which met earlier at Cerrito's was requested by Walter Hahn, Jr., Monterey City Manager, to assist the District in locating a site of about 50 acres within 5 or 6 miles of Monterey. A committee was appointed for this purpose by George Dovolis, president of the Realty Board.

RESTAURANT STRIKE ENDS WITH CONTRACT

The settlement of the restaurant and hotel strike on the Peninsula this week ended a rather unpleasant period The workers received a wage increase, but the health and welfare provisions asked by the union are not included in the new contract.

The new contract will run until July, 1953, although it can be reopened at the end of one year on wages and at the end of two years on wages and working conditions (including health and welfare).

Gallatin Powers, president of the Monterey Peninsula Restaurant Owners' Association, said that the picketing of the restaurants since July 4 caused no serious harm to the individual restaurants. "But we regret the picketing because it gives the visiting tourist a bad impression of the community," he added.

VALLEY DEVELOPMENT PLAN TO BE DRAFTED

An over-all plan for the development of the entrance to the Carmel Valley is now in the making under the leadership of Carmel Unincorporated. That group has urged the formation of a committee to draft such a plan and present it to the county planning commision.

The five - man committee will include members from the Lower and Upper Valley Advisory Committees, the Carmel Valley and Highlands Property Owners' Association. The committee will draft a development plan to be submitted to the five separate organizations for approval. If approved by them, the plan will then go to the county office with the suggestion that it be adopted as policy.

RECEPTION FOR FESTIVAL PERFORMERS

Following the first evening performance in this year's Carmel Bach Festival, on Monday, the Carmel Art Association held its annual reception in honor of musicians and patrons.

The committee planning the affair consisted of Mrs. Douglas MacGregor, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Aurner, Mrs. Robert Doolittle, Mr. and Mrs. J.W. MacLennon, Colonel and Mrs. Phillip Schneeburger, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Lehman, and Miss Sophie Harpe.

Mrs. A.M. Allen, president of the Carmel Music Society, presided at the refreshment table, assisted by Mrs. R.R. Wallace, Mrs. Lowenhaupt, and Mrs. Thomas McGlynn.

A Review

" MISTER BUNT"

Again, as in years past, the young thespians took over Carmel's Forest Theater and gave an entertaining performance of the fantasy "Mr. Bunt." Amazingly assured, the large cast of children went through the long play - even on opening night - without missing any lines or cues.

The gaily decorated sets by Erika Franke blended well with the woods of the Forest Theater. The combination of the stage, the costumes, and the enthusiastic children made a charming spectacle.

Michael Elsen in the title role handled the part like a veteran actor. In the opening scene, Toby Edson and Susan Trevvett went through the brother-sister dialogue in a convincing manner.

Director Blanche Tolmie obviously helped the children to understand their parts so that all were completely at ease. Carey Edson as Mrs. Gishish-ish, the old-fashioned fairy, and Neil Giarratana as Gyem, generally in charge of the fairies, also handled long roles well.

The adults in the cast, Jimmy Griffin, Pop Smith, Katie Ruster, Eric Borg (as the Owl's voice), Dolph Tewes, Cole and Helen Weston, and John Flanders Plunkett also did well, but it was primarily the childrens' night.

In addition to about 30 fairies, elves, flames and children who gamboled about the stage, others in the cast included Bonnie Wager, Richard Cummins, Patricia Giarratana, and Tweed Champe.

The stage staff did a professional job of lighting and handling sound effects.

We feel that the Forest Theater Guild should have planned the play to run at least two weekends. Possibly "Mr. Bunt" can be presented later on for those who missed it last weekend.

The popular Dorothy Warenskjold will sing on the series April 11 and the concluding concert will feature Janet Collins and her dance group on May 16. All concerts will be given at the Pacific Grove High School Auditorium. Ticket sales will be announced at a later date.

FLORENCE LOCKWOOD, whose one man show will be on display at the Pebble Beach Art Gallery until July 27th, is shown hanging one of her portraits. The subject is Julie Duffy, grandaughter of Mrs. Ann Heyneman of San Francisco. The public is invited to view the Lockwood paintings daily from 10 to 5, and Sundays from 1 to 5.

COUNTY FAIR TO HAVE GREAT BOOKS DISPLAY

The largest and most trrasured display of great books ever held at a County Fair on the Pacific Coast, will be one of the headline attractions at the 1952 Monterey County Fair, August 14 through 17.

Among the hundreds of rare volumes to be displayed will be books belonging to Queen Elizabeth, Madame Pompadour, King James I and Charles II of England, Padres Serra and Paloy, a 13th Century Armenian book of the Gospels, many specimens of printing and block illustration that appeared prior to 1500 AD and seldom seen volumes of early California works.

Edward Mc Lean, well known Peninsula collector and binder of books, is responsible for this excellent exhibit. Mr. Mc Lean at present has a studio with his wife, Hazel Dreis, one of America's best known bookbinders.

Among the local collectors who are loaning their material for the education and pleasure of Fair spectators are Richard Blaney and Mrs. D. L. James of Carmel Highlands, Rollo Peters and Mrs. William M. O'Donnell of Monterey.

Pete and Janine Johnson who will, in about a week, open their shop of French imports, to be called L'Arc de Triomphe,' are a couple as interesting as they are attractive.

From beginnings in Akron, Ohio, Pete started his bread-winning career as a junior executive trainee in the May Company department stores, an association that came to an end when he volunteered for the Army in 1941. Full of noble aspiration to serve his country, Pete proved to be, as well, full of allergies and was medically discharged a few months later, a victim of hay fever.

Somewhat taken aback by all this, he went to work for the Goodrich Tire Company in Akron, a chore that lasted until he again tried the service and this time managed to by-pass the hay fever. He became, of all things, a tailor to the generals.

It seems that there was a branch of the Army, in Paris, devoted to serving the special uniform needs of ranking U.S. officers. It was Pete's job to act as general salesman and designers of uniforms.

While happily supervising new looks in military garb, he met Janine, a French girl from Picardy. The daughter of an industrialist, Janine was living in Paris then with her family, working as an interpreter for the U.S. Army. Held within the close bounds of French family propriety, the Johnson's courtship was an exceedingly well supervised one, in which Janine's parents, brother and sister all participated. Since they had to be in Janine's home by eight o'clock every evening, it proved to be a fortunate thing that her mother was an excellent cook and her family an agreeable one.

At war's end, Pete returned to the States, only to find after three months of thinking it over that he would like to return to France to marry Janine. He did...and they spent the first two years of their married life in Paris, with Pete attending the Sorbonne in the GI bill of rights program. When it came time to return to the States, they followed the example of Pete's parents, both of whom had been in the Army and retired to Carmel. Pete's mother was a captain in the WAAC's and his father an Army colonel and they had both, on being demobilized come here.

The first job Pete held was on The Spectator, as advertising manager, and Janine at the same time did a fashion colum for the paper. From there they went to managing the Carmel Art Shop, until the idea of their own store led to a recent buying trip to France.

With a part of their merchandise en route and some already arrived, the Johnsons are now suffering the delays of customs and decoration. Beautiful examples of the things they'll carry decorate their apartment; delicate inlaid boxes; a Napoleonic telescope, a Rembrandt pen and ink drawing among them.

"We want to carry truly unusual things," they say, "just the nicest things we could find in France, both old and new." Since both are blessed with discrimination and taste and since both are well acquainted with France and her shops, a browse in 'L'Arc de Triomphe' promises to be more an artistic adventure than a shopping trip.

New radio relay brings convention telecasts to all West Coast viewers

On July 7th, the Bell System's radio relay system and coaxial cables enabled the TV networks to bring the Republican Convention to the nation's television viewers—who will also see the Democratic Convention on July 21st. It is now possible for all West Coast TV stations—from San Diego to Seattle—to carry these important national events as they happen. To accomplish this, Pacific Telephone engineers made special changes in the coaxial cable between Sacramento and Portland. They also rushed the installation of a new radio relay link from Portland to Seattle so both could be used together for the transmission of television network programs over this 745 mile route.

With the completion of Pacific Telephone's newest radio relay facilities, 99% of the nation's television viewers can be reached by network programs—making it possible for any event of national significance to be flashed visually across the nation in a fraction of a second. Telephone calls too, are carried by radio relay. Later this year, for example, the Pacific Northwest radio relay link will carry 132 simultaneous "through" calls—but that's only a fraction of its ultimate capacity. Important for convenience and entertainment, the radio relay system is even more important today when the telephone is hard at its biggest job—keeping America strong.

Your telephone is one of today's best bargains

The nationwide radio relay system is only one example of how we are constantly improving telephone service while holding the cost of service down—keeping it so low, in fact, that a telephone call remains one of today's best buys in any budget—your home's or your nation's.

Soil conservation officials reaffirmed this week that potential members of the proposed Carmel Valley Soil Conservation District can banish tax fears... The minimum tax, to begin with, is set at 2¢ per hundred exclusive of mineral rights and improvements...i.e., on unimproved property only. Besides the tax is not mandatory or automatic, must be voted by the duly elected directors of the district board..Normally financing comes directly from the county general fund as being cheaper than setting up tax machinery...Two methods of

The Bruised British Pound Brings the 'Best' By Way of Carmel

Caroldine Durbrow in camel's hair coat from Regent street

Carolyn Elstob

A SHOP with a difference is "Best from Britain," tucked away in a hedged, rose-bordered byway at London Mews, on Sixth near Dolores street in Carmel. The red-wood-paneled, yellow adobe studio is the shop, and it embodies the idea of Carolyn Elstob who, with Jane Gillies of London, started Best from Britain last December as a way of bringing the finest British imports to Americans.

Best from Britain is U. S. headquarters for such British luxury goods as Crown and Rose pewter, Cooper's exquisite leather handbags, Richard Shops' London Look fashions and Mosbrook of London kilts. Samples of these, and many other products from Scotland, Wales, Ireland and every corner of England, are on display at the shop in London Mews, but nothing is for direct sale there. All business is done on a mail order basis, with the approval and co-operation of the British Board of Trade, the Economic Co-operation Administration and the Bank of England.

Mrs. Elstob, Best from Britain's U. S. director, explains that the low prices on these fine British goods are possible only "because of the low state of the poor, bruised British pound." Each night, says Mrs. Elstob, the mail orders go out to Golden Square, where they are received by Mrs. I. E. Pinder, an American who has lived in London for 20 years. (Mrs. Pinder, a graduate of the University of Iowa, was honored by the British government for her war work.)

"Our shop is not merely a mecca for bargain hunters," says Mrs. Elstob. "It is a meeting place for those who love the feel of British hand-woven fabrics, the fumes and patina of British leathers, the glow of molded pewter, the glory of the tartans, for those who like to know that their dollars, spent for fine craftsmanship and materials, will go to England as 'new' dollars to help close the dollar gap between our two countries."

Carmel Valley's long await-ed first aid station will be set up in Tularcitos Fire House to administer to cuts, breaks, and other calamities befalling Valley flesh...In charge of the registered American Red Cross station will be Hugh Erwin, already head of the respirator squad, who will have a fire phone installed in his house for expediency..the number to call in case of fire or other emergency is 9221....The first aid station is already equip-ped and ready to operate, but its official opening will be an-nounced when directional signs have been approved by the planning commission and in-stalled...This fully equipped unit will be of invaluable aid to local doctors, particularly in auto accident and respirator cases. It is made possible through the hard work and study of eleven local men who re-cently completed the Red Cross Advanced First Aid course given by Carmel's Jack Mont-gomery....numbering Hugh Er-win, Bruce Carter, Bob Haller, George Corrigan, Sherman Jones Sam Corona, Don Corona, James Lingenfelter, Lou Allaire, Bob Mottern...passing the Standard course were Ed Mayfield and Mike Erwin.

Old Tularcitos school build-ing (No. 2) will be placed for sale shortly by the school board. Formal invitation for bids will be held at the old school, date to be announced. Notices will appear at the next meeting of the board in Aug-ust 5...Hearing on the new school budget, approved this week for publication, will be held at Tularcitos school Tues-day, August 5, at 8 p.m...Bids for new school building, grad-ing and grading for playground will be opened on Friday, July 25, at 4 p.m. at the office of architect Thomas Elston, Jr. in Carmel.

The Restaurant Owners' Association of the Monterey Peninsula wishes to thank all of you for your very fine cooperation and patronage during our recent strike.

Let us sincerely hope that things go more smoothly from now on.

We have agreed to and signed a three year contract with the local union which contains a no strike clause. That alone is a victory for the community as well as for the parties concerned.

Wage increases have been granted, and we had planned all the while that minimum wages should be increased. Most of us are paying more than the minimum wage scale now. A superior workman deserves as much more for his work as the boss can afford to pay. We wish that the union could supply more superior people. In the long run such employees save us money.

There is no reason why labor and management cannot get along peacefully --for actually they are natural partners, one depending on the other.

Everyone wants more money and so do we --but forgotten sometimes is the fact that we must work harder for it.

The Restaurant Association has proved its worth. The membership stuck to its guns and obtained a decent and fair contract for both sides.

We feel no animosity although there are those who say we have such a claim.

We know that we have waged a fair fight --a fight to stay in business and we say thanks to you for helping us.

ARTISTS' CONTEST AT COUNTY FAIR

Monterey County artists will vie in three classifications at the Monterey County Fair Art Show, August 14th through 17th, in an effort to bring home a beautiful trophy presented by the city and county of San Francisco. The winner will be selected by popular vote of all people visiting the Art Gallery at the Monterey County Fairgrounds.

Ballots will be available for the thousands of spectators expected to visit the 1952 Monterey County Fair which runs concurrently with the Art Show.

Art works will be divided into two Professional Classes Modern and Conservative, and a Non-Professional Class. Two separate juries, consisting of prominent out of county artists will judge the professional exhibits. A jury of five laymen will judge the non.professional class.

Entrants must be Monterey County residents and all works must be original and not previously shown in Monterey County Fairs. All entries must be received prior to noon of Friday, August 8.

Besides the three classes of water color and oil paintings, there will also be a display of Monterey County sculpture.

Interested artists may obtain copies of the 1952 Rules and Awards along with official entry blanks at the Monterey County Fair Grounds, phone 2-5863, local Chambers of Commerce, public libraries and art galleries and art supply stores.

FLORICULTURE EXPANDED AT 1952 COUNTY FAIR

With two new classifications added for the first time this year, the Floriculture Department exhibit space at the 1952 Monterey County Fair has been enlarged to care for a record number of floral entries. The arrangement room, considered the finest of any County Fair in the state, has been extended with its picturesque green rustic and tile setting under the shade of spreading oaks.

All entries must be in place by 4 p.m., August 13. Judging begins at 6 p.m. the same day.

GARDENING FOR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

By CHARLES W. DELANEY

SOIL:

In the beginning, soil was formed from rocks that had been weathered and broken down through the ages by the mechanical action of rain, wind waves, erosion by rivers, and the action of heat and cold and, finally by growth of roots of plants. It contains all of the inorganic minerals necessary for plant growth.

The types of soil are sand, clay and loam. Pure sand carries no food of any kind and it is coarse. Clay granules are very small and, when they become wet, run together to form a hard, compact mass. Loam may contain sand and clay, but, most important, it contains decayed vegetable and animal matter from decomposed plants and animals.

The microscopic life contained in loam soil is fabulous. It is teeming with bacteria molds, spores, and virus germs. These cause plant material to decimpose and, together It is teeming with bacteria molds, spores, and virus germs. These cause plant material to decompose and, together with their excreta, restore to the soil all of the materials the plants used up to grow and so life goes on in a circle.

It is interesting to know that from some of the molds found in the soil our great scientists made penecillin, aureomycin, streptomycin, chloromycetin, and many of the other wonderful drugs called antibiotics.

In the diet of human beings, we must have three important types of food - proteins, carbohydrates and fats and the 17 inorganic minerals are in the foods that supply us with the three important elements.

Plants, on the other hand must also have three inorganic chemicals, viz., nitrogen, phosphates and potash. These must be in the soil and by taking up water through the roots, the tracer chemicals are taken into the plant structure.

Nitrogen stimulates rapid growth of leaves and stems. It is supplied by sodium nitrate, ammonium sulphate, guano, cottonseed meal and blood meal. Phosphates promote root growth, fruit and flowers. A large root system supplies ample absorption of food ele- from the soil.

Phosphate is present in bone meal, which is so valuable in plant growth. Superphosphate is also obtained in nature from desert areas.

Potash is important for root crops and increases the carbohydrate content in root crops such as potatoes, beets, carrots, iris dahlias, or any of the bulb family.

The chief source of potash is from wood ashes, burned seaweed, and in more concentrated form, from nature.

COMMERCIAL FERTILIZERS

All commercial fertilizers contain the above three elements plus other ingredients such as blood meal, tankage from slaughter houses, sludge from sewerage disposal and inorganic chemicals.

Commercial fertilizers are stimulants. They do not add much to the soil and are only temporary in action. They must be used exactly as directed on the package otherwise they will burn and kill the tender plants. It is usually best to water the plant and then work in with a fork a small amount of the material.

Barnyard manure and compost will build up your soil, adding to the refuse that will decompose by action of the germs they contain. They put back into the soil what has been used up in plant growth. The vegetable matter will cause the soil to hold moisture and permit air to enter the soil. The soil must have bacteria, molds, yeast cells, protozoa, -plants cannot grow with - out them. The microbes break down the complex organic molecules and change them back into simple substances that new plants can absorb. By fertilizing the soil we mean putting back dead plant material, that will feed the germs in the soil. Wisely used commercial fertilizers will do no harm to the soil but, soil deteriorates unless plant material, such as barnyard fertilizer, compost or green cover crops, is put back into it.

VETERANS URGED TO REGISTER CERTIFICATES

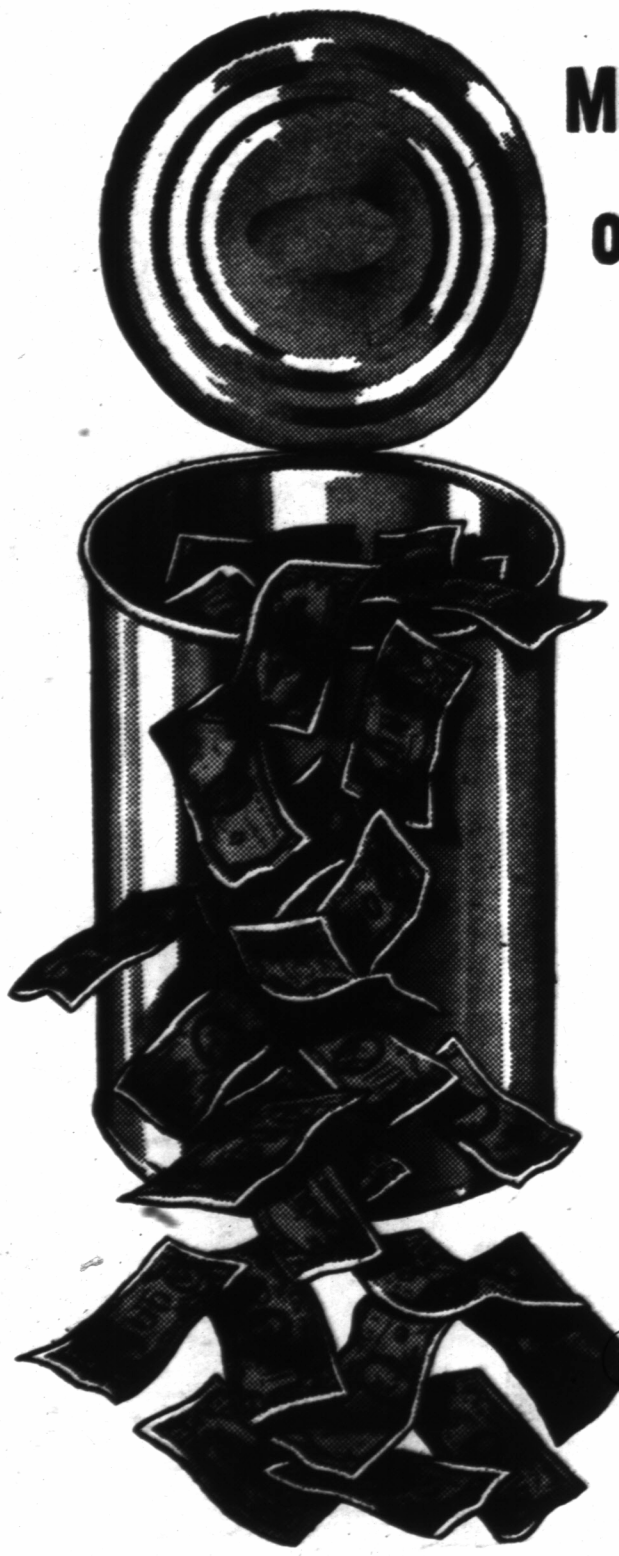
The increasing extension of many benefits and entitlements to veterans of the Korea emergency service makes it even more important for ex-servicemen to record and preserve their discharge certificates Claude S. Estill, Veterans' Service Officer, emphasized today.

"Just as it was with World War II veterans, the discharge documents which must be presented to obtain both state and federal benefits now available to veterans of Korea service and their dependents," Mr. Estill pointed out.

"There is actually no replacement for a lost discharge certificate," Mr. Estill explained. "A certificate in lieu of discharge is the best a veteran can get from his branch of service if he loses his original document."

Many of the troubles that go with losing a discharge can be avoided if the veteran or his dependents register the certificate with the County Recorder's office, the service officer advised. The recording service is extended without charge to veterans by all California counties.

"Have your discharge certificate recorded and also register with you county service office," Mr. Estill advised homecoming servicemen.



Millions out of a can.... for California!

Right now, as you read this, thousands of people around the globe are opening cans of California products.

A simple act in itself, opening a can. Hardly worthy of notice, you may say. But every time one of these cans is opened, it adds to the stream of money flowing into our State.

The value of the fruits, vegetables, sea food and other food products canned in California is more than $700,000,000 a year. This money benefits you and everyone who lives in the State, because products that are sent out of the State in cans, in passing from producer to canner to merchant, leave all of us with more money to spen

For more than 50 years, American Can Company—through the development of new containers and new techniques for canning—has been helping the canning industry widen markets for what California produces.

The constantly increasing income resulting from this co-operation between local and nationwide industry is a typical example of the benefits that forward-looking businesses can continue to create for California in a free, competitive economy.
